Adopting a dog or cat may cost more than the initial adoption fee. Food, veterinary care and unforeseen medical issues are just a few of the financial challenges that new pet owners face. Upon arrival to CARA, all pets are examined. During their stay at CARA, they are monitored; however, there is always the possibility that a pet is incubating disease or infection, while showing no signs or symptoms of illness. For this reason, we encourage adopters to take their pet to get their discount first exam from our vet partner within 10 days of adoption. At the time of adoption, the adopter assumes all responsibility for all known and unknown behavior and medical issues and will not hold CARA, its agents, servants, or employees responsible for any expenses or damages that are incurred on behalf of this animal.
